What ASATT has learned....

Most attendees prefer the virtual conference format over the in-person format. Attendees stated that they enjoyed being able to participate in this experience from the comfort of their own homes or while working instead of having to take time off for travel. The virtual conference platform is a relaxing, cost-effective way of gaining knowledge from wherever you're located.

This is my first virtual conference.

What ASATT has learned...

This was a learning experience for many, as it also was for ASATT. The learning of virtual platforms like Zoom is key to navigating the digital world, and best done through experiences like this one. There were a few attendees who had been to a virtual event before, so the ASATT conference only helped to further their experience with the Zoom platform.

Did we provide enough technical information to navigate the virtual conference?

What ASATT has learned...

ASATT had a great support staff on-hand during the virtual conference. Attendees were able to get the support they needed in a timely and easy-to-navigate manner.

The conference offered more CEs than I needed to fulfill my requirement.

What ASATT has learned...

Attendees needed the amount of CEs that were offered. Continuing Education credits are vital and the conference offered enough CEs to fulfill the requirements without going overboard on extras. Everyone needed a different amount of CEs, but from the results of this question, it appears as though the number the conference offered was just enough to suit both those who needed a lot and those who needed a little.
